THE DEATH RECORD.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Bedford Boys Lose and Win Game.

The long-continued rain last week caused the manager of the Bedford baseball team to announce, just before we went to press, that the game scheduled for the 30th had been postponed until June 5; but the clouds were unexpectedly pushed aside and the warm rays of "Old Sol" took enough moisture out of the grounds to make playing possible on Memorial Day. The Everett nine won the contest by a score of 15 to 1. The visitors played a steady, heady game. They gave their clever pitcher and catcher splendid support. The Bedford boys gave a fine exhibition of how the national game should not be played. Their team work was conspicuous by its absence and the creditable work of their battery went for naught. There is good material, however, in the local practice for a strong club and with persistent practice under the direction of a competent coach the Bedford boys will be able to more than hold their own with any team in the county.

Bedford Defeats Mann's Choke.

On Wednesday the Bedford and Mann's Choke baseball teams "crossed bats" on the ground north of the P. R. station. It was an ideal day for a game, but the sun's rays were not strong enough to dry up a few mud holes and the errors which were made on that account were entirely excusable. The visitors were first but failed to get a man across the home plate. The home team started with four runs to its credit and when the game was called the score was 22 to 14 in favor of the locals. In the latter part of the game the visitors had a batting rally and it looked as if they might win out. The good work of the Mann's Choice battery is worthy of note, as are also the catching and batting of Lentz and a difficult catch made by Wisegarver. He was a young man of good character, generous, gentlemanly and industrious. He had his life insured for $1,000.

John Hamilton.

John Hamilton, a well known colored citizen of Bedford, died at the almshouse Saturday night. He was born slave in Hampshire county, Virginia, nearly eighty years ago. He was set free by his master, William Doulan, in 1842 and came to Bedford. For several years he worked for Maj. William Watson, at the Grove, and subsequently secured employment at the Bedford Springs hotel, then owned by the Adspersons. While working in the ice house there we are informed that he was caught cold, "which settled in his leg," making him a cripple. His employers gave him a home in Boydstown and for many years he made and repaired boots and shoes. He was married twice—it's his first time to Sarah Ellen Brown. To this union two children were born, one of whom is still living, namely, Henry Hamilton. Mrs. Hamilton died fifteen years ago. In 1895 he married a woman in Virginia whose name we were unable to learn. She survives him. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Dr. P. J. Mcintosh, of the A. M. E. Zion church. Interment in Mt. Zion cemetery. Mr. Hamilton was a good-natured man and had many friends. In his prime he was one of the strongest men in this part of the state.

Samuel Border.

Samuel Border died at her home in Cypher Sunday evening. The deceased was forty-four years old. The body was buried in the Burkett's graveyard at Yellow Creek Monday afternoon.

Decedent was in desolate circumstances and the directors of the poor made the funeral arrangements. She is survived by two sons, who were taken to the almshouse.

Republican Primary.

The Republicans of Bedford county will hold their primary to-day, when candidates for the following offices will be voted for: One person for president judge, one for poor director, one for county surveyor, two persons for delegates to the state convention and one for member of the county committee. Following is a list of those who are aspirants for political honors:

For president judge, Hon. J. H. Connecker, J. H. Jordan, Esq., and W. M.

Pennell, Esq.; for director of the poor,

H. S. Baker, of South Woodbury township; W. W. Cessna, of Hopewell township; and S. A. Mock, of Lincoln township; for surveyor, G. W. Cusard, of Everett; delegates to state convention,

R. E. Smith, of Hopewell township, and A. C. Blackburn, of East St. Clair township. Interest centers in the fight for the judgeship. The campaign has been characterized by much bitterness that will not be wiped out at the primary.

There is a great deal of speculation

as to the division of the district, some of the political prophets predicting that Somerset will be divorced from

Bedford, others that there will be no change. The judicial apportionment bill is slowly running the legislative gauntlet. Its fate will not be known at least until after the primary is over.

Deadly Deeds.

Sunday night some scoundrels destroyed a lot of harness, fly-nets and a carriage top belonging to Joseph Rue,

of Spring Hope, and cut the tail off of one of his valuable horses.

To cap the climax of their dastardly display, the cowards cut down 130

four-year-old peach trees full of fruit.

The work was done with Mr. Rue's axe, which was found where the last tree had been chopped down. Every self-respecting person will seethingly condemn the perpetrators of this outrage, and hope that they may be speedily brought to justice. Suspicion rests heavily upon certain persons, but we are not at liberty at present to give particulars. Mr. Rue, we are informed, is a highly respected, law-abiding citizen.

Strong By Trees.

On Sunday Nathaniel Smith, of Bedford township, met with a rather serious accident. A hive of bees swarmed on the limb of a tree and he climbed a ladder and got them in a paw. While descending he accidentally upset the paw and the bees fell upon him and stung him so severely that he was unconscious for some time. Dr.

S. H. Gang was summoned and applied effective remedies. Mr. Smith was undaunted by his hire and another swarm of bees without mishap.

CONDITION OF THE CROPS.

Weekly Summary Issued by the Weather Bureau.

Practically an entire absence of rain over a large part of the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys has intensified the drought conditions previously extending in this district, while the greater part of the region extending from the gulf coast to the lower lake region and New England suffered from excessive rains. The week has been abnormally cool to the eastward of the Mississippi river and in the west gulf states, with frosts in the central Rocky mountain districts, upper lake region, Kansas and Oklahoma, causing little or no damage, except in northern Wisconsin, while temperatures much above the average occurred in the Upper Missouri and Red River of the North valleys. The northern Rocky mountain and Pacific coast districts experienced a very favorable week.

On the whole, the week has been very unfavorable to corn, which, owing to low temperatures, has made very slow growth throughout the principal corn states, damage by cut worms being extensively reported. In the southern states further improvement in the condition of the crop is generally reported. Planting has been much retarded over the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic states and New England on account of cool, wet weather.

ON A FOUNDATION OF SAND.

The recent decision of the supreme court of the United States on the insurance cases has been more widely discussed than any opinion this tribunal has handed down within the last quarter of a century. It has called forth a storm of criticism and condemnation from public men and newspapers of Republican as well as Democratic faith. The New York Herald says the decision rests "on a basis more insecure than a foundation of sand." It is not only opposed by the largest minority of which the court is capable, who declare, through the chief justice, that it overthrows the basis of our constitutional law, but even the majority, while coinciding in the conclusion, could not agree in the reasoning by which it was reached. Three of the justices united in a dissenting opinion to show that though they concurred in the judgment they did so "on grounds which were not only different from but in conflict with those expressed by Justice Brown," while another majority justice differed from all these. There were, therefore, three opinions to express the views of the five justices who constituted the majority of the court."

The facts set forth by the Herald in these simple, straightforward statements are understood by, and have made an impression, upon even those who have been lovingly designated by an immortal statesman as the plain people. Bourke Cockran, the able statesman, logical thinker and courageous citizen, makes the following analysis of the court's decision:

"One justice clearly holds that the Constitution itself does not extend at all to newly acquired possessions; eight justices that it does extend over them except as to some of its provisions—notably the revenue clause—while four insist that it covers every foot of territory over which the government undertakes to exercise permanent sovereignty."

"The prevailing opinion leaves the validity of every extra-constitutional law which congress may pass concerning these islands—other than revenue laws—an open question to be settled by a separate suit, thus effectually establishing a kind of dispensing power in the court to sanction some exercises of authority and annul others, not in obedience to any fixed rule, but according to what it may be pleased to consider the circumstances of each case."

"In overruling squarely and specifically prior judgments of Chief Justice Marshall and Chief Justice Taney, the decision impairs its own prospect of stability as a controlling precedent."

In Mr. Cockran's opinion, the decision, instead of settling controverted questions, opens the doors wide and invites future litigation and the end will be that the conclusions of the minority on the supremacy of the Constitution will be vindicated over "the decision reached in the tumult of confusing contradictory opinions by an irreconcilably discordant majority."

It is a fact worthy of note that the opinions which, taken collectively, reflect the views of the public, are not the statements of narrow partisans. They come from journals and statesmen of standing and probity who belong to all the different political parties of this country. The Chicago Times-Herald, a Republican paper, says that "although this is a John Marshall year, Justice Brown's opinion casts his historic decision on the fundamental question aside and reverses it."

Freedom. In my opinion, congress has no existence and can exercise no authority outside of the Constitution."

First Submarine Cable.

Which was made from an ordinary wire, insulated with gutta percha, was laid across the English Channel about fifty years ago. It was also about the same time that Hester's Stomach Bitters, the world renowned dyspepsia cure, was first introduced to the public; and its success as a family medicine during those years almost equaled that of the submarine cable, while to-day it stands alone as the one reliable remedy for dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulence, constipation, biliousness, nervousness or insomnia. If you are a sufferer from these diseases, it is because you have never tried the Bitters. Try it once, if you would be well. It will strengthen your entire system, and produce sound sleep, and good health must naturally follow.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. Lesson for June 9. JESUS APPEARS TO PAUL.—Acts 23:6-10. Read the first chapter.

GOLDEN TEXT. "It was not disbelieved unto the heavenly vision."—Acts 20:10.

Brethren and fathers, hear ye the defense which I now make unto you. I am a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but brought up in Jerusalem, at the feet of Gamaliel, instructed according to the strict manner of the law of our fathers, being zealous for God, even as ye all are this day.

My manner of life then from my youth up, which was from the beginning among mine own nation, and at Jerusalem, know all the Jews; having knowledge of me from the first, if they be willing to testify, how after the straitest search of our religion I lived a Pharisee. And now I stand here to be judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers; unto which promise our twelve tribes, earnestly serving God night and day, hope to attain.

And concerning this hope I am accused by the Jews. Why is it judged incredible with you, if God doth raise the dead? I verily thought within myself that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. And this I did also in Jerusalem, and I both shut up many of the saints in prisons, having received authority from the chief priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my vote against them.

And publishing them oftentimes in all the synagogues, I strove to make them blaspheme, and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto foreign cities. Whereupon, as I journeyed to Damascus with the authority and commission of the chief priest, at midnight, I saw on the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them that journeyed with me.

And when we were all fallen to the earth I heard a voice saying unto me in the Hebrew language, "Saul, Saul, why persecutes thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against the goad." And I said, "Who art thou, Lord?" And the Lord said, "I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutes. But arise, and stand upon thy feet: for to this end have I appeared unto thee, to appoint thee a minister and witness both of the things wherein hast seen me and of the things wherein I will appear unto thee, delivering thee from the people and from the Gentiles, unto whom I send thee to open their eyes, that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive remission of sins and an inheritance among them that are sanctified by faith in me."

And they that were with me beheld indeed the light, but they heard not the voice of him that spoke to me. And I said, "What shall I do, Lord?" And the Lord said unto me, "Arise, and go into Damascus; and there shall be told thee all things which are appointed for thee to do."

And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came unto Damascus. And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, well reported of by all the Jews that dwelt there, came unto me, and said, "Brother Saul, receive thy sight." And in that very hour I looked on him.

Plumbers for June.

The Pilgrim for June opens with a timely article on that most characteristic of American summer resorts, Atlantic City, by Julian Hawthorne, who makes a plea for a greater proportion of out-door life in the routine of hard-working Americans. This note finds echo elsewhere in the Pilgrim in a suggestive article on "Neighborhood Golf Clubs," in a brilliantly illustrated article on "Formal Gardening" by Prof. Wilhelm Miller, of Cornell, and in the editorials. The department of social reform, always strong in this magazine, this month comprehends an article on the forthcoming Detroit conference, by Elwood Pomeroy; a brilliant sketch of Count Tolstoi, by Ernest Howard Crosby, and an account of the municipal activities of Glasgow, by Prof. E. W. Beams. The usual number of short stories and helpful domestic departments go to make up an unusually strong number. A notable article, unique for its illustrations, is that of Frederick Pym, curator of a museum in South Africa, upon the plague of locusts. Especially suggestive to girls at the threshold of life is Miss Helen Tut's description of library work as a profession for women.

IN A CONVICT'S CELL.

Miss Jane McMahon Arrested for Telling a Striker He Was No Good—Work of the Moral Reformers.

Special Correspondence of THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, June 1—I frequently hear people speak of some offense inflicted on themselves or on some one they knew and loved, and the offense was so gross that it made their blood boil.

This was my condition Thursday morning when I read the account of the arrest of Miss Jane McMahon for telling a striker he was no good. The officer did not want to arrest, but merely to leave a notice requiring her to call the next morning and hear what the striker was going to say. Miss McMahon was engaged in a silk mill at Paterson, N. J., and was evidently satisfied with her position, and she saved from her wages enough to buy a little house. She paid her bills promptly and, best of all, she enjoyed every penny that she made herself, and not a stiver of it ever reached the pockets of the walking delegate or the grand master workman, and if such a threatening rebellion shall pass unchallenged and without question, then goodby to civil and religious liberty under the Stars and Stripes. Farewell to that priceless jewel, the most costly and brightest in Liberty's domain—the freedom's ballot. If the persecutions of the weak were no longer sustained what would become of the grand master workman and the walking delegate? Horror of horrors! They might be compelled to go to work themselves, and that danger was not very remote.

There are few positions in public life where the man and the power he wields are in perfect unity, but a case of that kind did occur inside the board of public works. Never was there a better illustration of this than a circumstance which took place a short time before the death of Colonel Warren, a brave soldier and an honest man, who had been selected to take charge of the street cleaning department, one of the most difficult and unthankful positions on the inside of our municipal administration. To reach its highest ideal any man would need nerves of steel and a conscience as spotless as the mountain snow. The invitations to plunder were almost irresistible. Take the matter of measurement in filling in vacant lots with several thousand carts employed—one had only to add a foot or two to raise his income to a thousand dollars a day. The avenues of public plunder in the board of public works might have almost tempted a saint, much less a man indifferent to honesty. A skilful politician whose name is in every man's mouth to-day was only an interested second place, which he entered in poverty the most complete, yet in a little more than two years he could buy race courses and horses to run on them, he could wrestle with the Egyptian kings and beat them, he bought stocks and traded in gold galore, he looked in a short time to become a multi-millionaire, he became at a single bound king of the automobilia; he was like our worthy mayor in one respect, that journeyed with me.

And when we were all fallen to the earth I heard a voice saying unto me in the Hebrew language, "Saul, Saul, why persecutes thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against the goad." And I said, "Who art thou, Lord?" And the Lord said, "I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutes. Daughters of Eve.

Are women better than men? This is a question that E. S. Martin asks and answers in an article entitled "Women," in McClure's magazine for June. No better, only different; or if better, merely in a negative fashion. They drink less, smoke less and certain of their emotions are less strong than corresponding emotions in men. Women are what men make them, and while men are still appreciable far from perfection, why, women will be still a little short of the angels they are sometimes represented, and what is worse, expected to be.

RADICAL CHANGES

A DAY'S LIMIT, 50 TROUT.

Stringent Regulations for the Protection of Other Species—Any Person Trying To Depopulate a Brook To Be Fined.

Section 15.—It is unlawful to obstruct any fish way or to fish with nets of any kind or device except rod, hook and line within one-fourth of a mile of such fish way, or to place obstructions to prevent the migration of fish. Fine, $50 for first offense and $100 for repetition.

BUYING AND SELLING.

Section 17.—It is unlawful to purchase, sell or have in possession, the same having been caught in this Commonwealth, any game or food fish, except during the lawful period, and six days thereafter. Fine, $10.

Section 18.—It is unlawful for any person or corporation to obstruct any fish way without the written consent of the board of fish commissioners Fine, $100.

Section 19.—The fish commissioners have power in cases where they have stocked the waters which heretofore have not contained food or game fish to prohibit all persons from catching such fish for three years. The commissioners shall give public notice by posting on the premises and publishing in two county newspapers for three weeks. Fine, $10.

Section 20.—It is unlawful to fish for game fish except with rod, hook and line or with hand line having not more than three hooks, or for food fish with any device not specifically permitted in the act under a fine of $75 as provided in Section 8.

Fine, $10.

Section 22.—It is unlawful to trespass upon the waters of any fish hatchery operated by the fish commissioners by any corporation not for profit, or to trespass in any waters not made public without permission. Provided, that corporations engaged in the artificial propagation of fish, not for profit, shall operate a fish hatchery, and provided that no stream or dam shall be erected to prevent the free passage of fish; that all water used shall be posted and if any form of crossing shall pass over such waters it shall be unlawful for any person without permission to fish from such said crossing. Any domestic water fowl trespassing may be destroyed, provided that nothing in this section shall prohibit the use of nets or traps.

Section 23.—It is unlawful to apply to the fish commissioners for game or food fish with attempt to put the same into any private fish preserve. Roscoe Pierson.

The People's Advocate and Press of New Bedford contained the following obituary:

All who knew little Roscoe Pierson mourn his death, which occurred at his home in the city on Tuesday, May 21, 1901. He was but seven years, two months and two days old. Very delicate health had been a constant trouble, and when he died was often taken sick. He was also very pale, but this time he also recovered, but this illness of three weeks proved fatal. His death resulted from lung affection, thus ending his sweet life with Christian hope in his heart before his death of heaven, and as he wanted to die and was passing over would be one of the angels in heaven. He requested that all his friends and relatives come to his funeral, as he said should meet him over there. At his request they sang for him until he passed away.

His Heavenly Father gathers the lame into His bosom and says, "Come, my son, I have prepared a home for you in the Kingdom of heaven." Roscoe was bright and had a pleasant disposition, was very poor, but was well educated. He attended school on Friday at 10 o'clock, Rev. J. T. Bell officiating, who preached an excellent sermon.

Four little girls—Grace, Kern, Laura, Sue—were buried in the New Bedford cemetery. Interment was made in the Methodist graveyard. His casket was covered with flowers as the last tribute of respect.

Roscoe Pierson was a son of H. I. Pierson, day operator for the P. R. R. at State Line.

SIX MILE RUN, June 4.

Editor GAZETTE.—At the 5th session of Broad Top Sunday School association, held in the M. A Valuable Publication.

On June 1 the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad company published the 1901 edition of the Summer Excursion Route Book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal summer resorts of eastern America, with the best routes for reaching them and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts of the east and over seventeen hundred different routes or combinations of routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive hand book of summer travel ever offered to the public. The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tones cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad. This very interesting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to the general office, Broad Street station, by mail, for twenty cents.

Thomas Axon Fatally Injured.

Thomas Axon was caught in a "bull wheel" in the mine of the Webster Coal and Coke company at Ehrenfeld, Cambria county, Monday afternoon and so severely injured that he died Tuesday morning. He was coming out of the mine, "says Tuesday's Johnstown Tribune," and in stepping out of the way to avoid a pair of cars stepped into the wheel and his left leg was broken in several places away into the thigh. He was brought to this city on a light engine last night and was found to be suffering greatly and passed away this morning."

The deceased had been working at Ehrenfeld but four days. He went there from Hopewell, where his wife and four children reside. He was aged forty-five years and was a miner by occupation.

General Gordon Re-Elected.

At the return of the Confederate veterans, held at Memphis, Tenn., last weekend, Gen. John B. Gordon was elected commander-in-chief of the order without opposition. The scene which followed the announcement, that for one year longer he would preside over the work of the organization, was touching. The old soldiers sprang to their feet and cheered the general with frantic energy. Delegates climbed up their chairs, made the building ring with their shouts and filled the air with their waving hats as they applauded him again and again. General Gordon was one of the most popular lecturers at last year's Bedford county teachers' institute.

SOME POLITICAL DEFINITIONS.

The Taxpayer, Regardless of Party, Will Rest Them with Interest.

The following clipping was handed to me by a reader of THE GAZETTE:

Those skilled minds which crystallized the Century dictionary into being, according to the Chicago Record, were at work on a political dictionary of the American people, and from the advanced sheets received we quote the following definitions:

Assemble—Three men and a supply of beer, together with one of the officers of the ward club, to address the party.

Boss—A scoundrel located at the chewed end of a thick cigar.

Committee—The hide-and-seek, high-spy and blind-man's-buff games of politics.

Dictator—A highly colored and upholstered gentleman who, two years hence, will return to the profitable pastime of carrying a hod.

Euthanasia—The spirit of hops.

Freedom—A word obsolete in practice, but ferociously rampant in vocalization.

Favorite Son—A living, moving sign which reads: "This Delegation For Sale."

Good Fellow—One who has failed at everything but politics and whose stock in trade is a smile permanently mortised to his features and "the price."

Hail—The back end of a saloon.

Jag—The beginning and ending of politics.

Kick—A useless but amusing action on the part of the people who pay
